Educational Sessions

Globalization and a U.S. Constitutional Amendment: The Future of Alcohol Laws in the United States

With more than 90% of the beer business owned by foreign interests and an increasing globalized presence in all aspects of the alcohol business, this session will explore what changes, if any, are in store for U.S. alcohol regulation. Hear from a variety of experts on potential lessons learned from overseas alcohol regulation as well as future challenges to the American state-based system of alcohol regulation.

Trade Practice Laws: A State and Federal Perspective

Red lights, yellow lights and green lights. The intersection of business practices and state and federal alcohol laws that regulate the industry will be examined in this interactive panel discussion featuring state and federal alcohol regulators.

What is the Fosdick and Scott Report and Why is it Important?

In 1933, the United States ended the experiment of national Prohibition. More importantly, the U.S. also established a system of alcohol controls that works well today, more than 75 years later. The "idea incubator" for the state alcohol control systems was the book Toward Liquor Control by Raymond Fosdick and Albert Scott. Hear how they got it right, where they got it wrong and the modern day lessons of their seminal work.

Supplier Contracts: Implications for State Alcohol Laws

Recently, supplier contracts for distributors have become increasingly one-sided with several provisions of the contract clearly conflicting with state laws. Many state attorneys general and alcohol beverage control commissions have weighed-in against the enforceability of portions of these contracts. Hear the latest from the states and get practical advice to help guide negotiations with suppliers on these contracts and other developments in franchise laws.

Liquor Liability Laws: Pros, Cons and Recent Developments

Who is liable when a consumer misuses alcohol? A debate regarding the liability of those selling alcohol including dram shop and social hosting laws will take place during this session.

21st Amendment Litigation Update

This informative session will provide an overview of recent and pending challenges in direct shipping battles and antitrust challenges to state-based alcohol regulation across the country. Supplier direct shipping, retailer direct shipping, pricing regulations and federal preemption will be addressed.

Public Health Aspects of Alcohol Regulation

Media coverage of alcohol regulation often concentrates on the efforts by the industry to determine winners and losers. However, alcohol regulation is more than industry self-regulation. Hear from public health community advocates about their perspective on the proper role of alcohol regulation in regulating industry and protecting the public health.

Defending State Liquor Laws Under the 21st Amendment: A State Perspective

States are rarely involved in litigation over the 21st Amendment. Hear a panel of assistant attorneys general who have been involved in litigation regarding the 21st Amendment as they explain their learning curves and give advice for defending a state against a challenge to a state's 21st Amendment authority.

Common Legal Issues Facing Operators of Alcohol Companies

This session will explore common issues of employment laws, the Family Medical Leave Act, COBRA, OSHA and similar laws facing small businesses across the country. Recent and pending changes in federal statutes make knowledge of these issues more important than ever.

Sessions are subject to change. Additions or changes to will be posted to www.centerforalcoholpolicy.org.*

Faculty Highlights

Keynote Presentation

Jon Bruning, Nebraska Attorney General and President, National Association of Attorneys General

The role of the attorney general in upholding a state's 21st Amendment alcohol laws continues to be a key focus of the alcohol debate. General Bruning, the current chairman of The National Association of Attorneys General (NAAG), will reflect on the role state attorneys general play in policy debates about alcohol, a state's role under the 21st Amendment and the importance of society's interest in fighting the abuse of alcohol and states rights.
