Educational Sessions

Public Health Perspectives on Alcohol Regulation

Much of the debate about alcohol legislation and litigation often explores alcohol industry concerns about economic issues. Public health advocates will discuss balancing alcohol regulation with public health considerations.

Legal Developments in Fighting Drunk Driving

The scourge of drunk driving remains at the forefront of many legislative and judicial actions. Hear the latest on developments across the country on policies and litigation related to drunk driving prevention efforts.

21st Amendment Litigation Roundtable

With nine of the twelve federal circuits addressing 21st Amendment matters in the last two years, alcohol litigation remains a crucial issue facing states. This session will analyze conflicting circuit opinions, responses to the litigation (including federal legislation) and the new makeup of the United States Supreme Court.

International Relations, Alcohol, Public Health and the 21st Amendment

This panel will explore a variety of issues that public health and government agencies consider when involved in foreign trade debates related to alcohol. From dealings with foreign alcohol manufacturers to the public health considerations of alcohol regulation, or states' rights under the 21st Amendment, complex issues are present in an increasingly globalized alcohol marketplace.

Alcohol Regulation's Important Role in Tax Collection

The taxation of alcohol is important to state revenues especially in these challenging budget times. States utilize a wide variety of tools to collect alcohol taxes, some of which are not available with other products. Learn the various state laws that allow states to collect alcohol taxes and fees, such as a Texas law that increases its ability to audit and collect alcohol taxes.

Defending State Liquor Laws Under the 21st Amendment: A State Perspective

States face obstacles when confronted with 21st Amendment challenges. This panel of assistant state attorneys general and regulators—who have been involved in litigation regarding the 21st Amendment—will explain the sharp learning curve on this topic. They will also offer advice for defending a state against a 21st Amendment challenge.

The Delicate Balance Between the Tiers

The American system of state-based alcohol regulation was set up to provide separate and accountable tiers for states to monitor the alcohol industry. Over the past 75 years, states have enacted countless measures to define and regulate the marketplace. Laws that help enforce this separation of tiers—such as franchise laws and tied house restrictions—will be examined, as will current regulatory and litigation related matters in these fields.

The Role of Religion in Alcohol Regulation

Religion has played a role in many parts of public policy, and alcohol is no exception. The perspective of religious groups has been a focus of many debates about alcohol regulation for centuries. This panel will explore what lessons have been learned and what current alcohol matters are attracting the attention of the faith community.

Ethics Safari: Surviving the Legal Practice Jungle

This is a new and challenging interactive seminar that ventures into shadowy areas, exploring recent developments in legal ethics as well as new tools for anticipating and dealing with ethics dilemmas. Engaging hypothetical scenarios, most based on recent cases and lawyer experiences, will become the catalyst for wide-ranging group discussion and debate.

Sessions are subject to change. Additions or changes will be posted to www.centerforalcoholpolicy.org.

Keynote Presentation

The Honorable Roy Cooper, North Carolina Attorney General and President, National Association of Attorneys General

The role of the attorney general in upholding a state's 21st Amendment alcohol laws continues to be a key focus of the alcohol debate. General Cooper, the current President of The National Association of Attorneys General (NAAG), will reflect on the role state attorneys general play in policy debates about alcohol, a state's role under the 21st Amendment, the importance of society's interest in fighting the abuse of alcohol, underage drinking and overall efforts to fight crime and protect small businesses and consumers.

Continuing Legal Education (CLE) Credit

New for 2010: An ethics section will be offered for attendees. The Center for Alcohol Policy is seeking appropriate CLE accreditation for the 2010 Alcohol Law Symposium. An updated list of states offering accreditation for the 2010 Symposium will be posted at www.centerforalcoholpolicy.org. In 2009, over 35 states approved CLE accreditation to participants of the Center for Alcohol Policy's Alcohol Law Symposium. Certain states do not have mandatory CLE requirements.

About the Center

The Center for Alcohol Policy is a 501c(3) organization that educates policymakers, regulators and the public about alcohol, its uniqueness and its regulation.
